

Healing Lives Through the Sport of Golf

COUNTRY CLUB PARK

Our Story

Born out of resiliency and the resolve to help people overcome emotional and physical trauma, the Priest James Foundation was founded by Priest James Rivera after suffering life threatening burns during a 6th grade science experiment conducted by his teacher. During the months of recovery, and multiple surgeries that followed, he found himself getting out of his bed daily to putt 3-4 balls into a glass in the confines of his hospital room. As a competitive golfer, he would tell himself that he would overcome this setback and one day return to competition. Many days, he did not know if he was going to make it.

Now a teenager, after being burned on nearly a third of his body, Priest James has gone on to compete in PGA Qualifying Rounds and shot impressive scores from the pro-tees. Realizing that his recovery and success was directly related to his participation and the therapeutic aspects of golf, the Priest James Foundation was founded with the goal of utilizing the sport of golf as a pivotal tool for healing.

Our Core Values

Just as physical recovery occurs in stages, psychological needs differ over time for victims of emotional and physical trauma. Patients often are initially elated after being released from a hospital or clinical setting. However, that often is where the real recovery begins. Our belief is that golf may be used as an avenue allowing patients the opportunity to refocus their interest in a positive direction after a devastating incident.

With these attributes in mind, the Mission of the Priest James foundation is to use Golf as a catalyst for healing in the lives of people that have suffered emotional or traumatic injuries.

OUR COMMITMENT

- To alleviate the emotional and physical trauma by introducing Golf as a therapeutic solution
- To Provide Putting Greens, Golf Clinics and Golf Equipment as a therapy option to hospitals
- To Raise the Awareness of the Therapeutic Aspects of the Sport of Golf
- To Make Coaching, Participation and Equipment Complimentary for Trauma Patients
- To Build Strong Relationships in the Community and With Our Partners
- To Follow Best Practices for Non-Profits while being Fiscally Responsible and Optimize Resources
